Pertinent Paragraphs

The idea of the garden section of the Forward club to sponsor a garden and lawn contest looks like a good one to us. Lemon Grove should have lots of attractive yards . . . . considering the fact that many, many flowers grow so well here . . . . and if yours isn't ready for the contest, there's Mrs. Lewis with the plants, seeds and advice — and a smile at her shop on Broadway. Others also.

Continuing harping on yards . . . . well kept lawns, flowers, etc., have you driven down some of the streets in Vista La Mesa recently? Some real models over there.

Notice a local theatre showing Olive Oil for President — but holding it until the day after the election. Might almost call it Smart Politics. Another theatre featuring The Cobra Strikes — while every presidential candidate hopes he can end strikes!

If you're still with us . . . . tourists kodaking the big lemon (We need three more of those) and checking the buildings and businesses — talking among themselves . . . . probably marveling at the growth here — all the new Piggly block and within three years everything on north side of Broadway, east of the railroad except Casteel's real estate office and Mrs. Lewis' nursery, clear on to Pal's place. The Grove theatre — and all the rest . . . . and across the railroad west side of Main street — the substantial development made by Fred Ellis and the stores along there . . . . new, progressive, prosperous. Guess it's the comeback visitors who note the biggest changes.

Would be interesting to list the growth for the past ten years . . . may get around to that if and when proper help becomes available — No ninety day resident can do it alone . . . . even these sketchy ramblings require considerable time and assistance.

Wonder if someone could spot the location of the first home built here? The first school house and the dates? When was the post office established — and where? Probably our best bet would be to corner Tony Sonka and find out about these things and a lot more of general interest pertaining to the history of Our Town.

High school bus unloading in front of our shop — more than 50 to the load — fine, healthy good looking boys and girls . . . . with a lot of living ahead of them . . . . and a few responsibilities, also . . . . not to mention the big mess it seems we're gonna leave the country in when they take over, including a debt of a few hundred billion.

Reminds us (school bus — not the national debt) have you been in to visit the Review shop? To see where the Lemon Grove Review is created? You should see it — preferably on Friday thru Mondays. Know more about it and how you can help it be worth more to you and the community.

GROVERS SAID TO BE GETTING OVER PICNIC

Wow! What a time was had at the first Community Picnic.

Eucalyptus Park rang with laughter and screams Sunday as the Business Men led the Lions 7 to 6 at the end of two innings in the big baseball (?) game. Then as the Lions came to bat in the third, The Great Donnelly pulled one of his strategic tricks out of the bag, and sent in a new pitcher, Lefty Jo (of Jo's Dress Shop). She really mowed them down.

Next, the Business Men's coach replaced catcher Vince with Dorothy Van Gilse, and after much serious thought, placed Alice Hill at second, and replaced the entire team with members of his secret squadron, all girls'

This put the Lions in a roaring frenzy and they countered with several women players. Then the game really began in earnest. At the end of the sixth, the score stood 116 to 115 but no one knew who was leading, so the game was called. Nobody who was there will ever forget that game, and Monday morning all of the players remembered it distinctly. No crutches were noticed, but the sale of liniment at the drug stores reached an all-time high.

After the game, John Van Gilse started the games and races. Children of all ages from 3 years old and up to 89 took part, and prizes galore were given to the winners. During the three-legged races, Mac McGee announced that all contestants who remained on their feet to finish would receive a banana split at Mac's Sugar Plum. The counter was filled all day Monday and bananas are hard to find in Lemon Grove this week.

At 4:00 p.m. everyone sat down to eat. Coffee and lemonade were furnished free and 25 gifts were given in a free drawing. First winner was Mrs. C. L. Carman of 3564 Harris St., who was presented with a complete set of Pyrex ovenware. Other prizes, all donated by the merchants of Lemon Grove, including a baby doll, a fishing pole and reel, hosiery, scarves, $5.00 merchandise certificates, and dozens of others.

An interesting sidelight came about during the drawing. Little three year old Jeannie Magill of 3630 Grove Street was selected to draw out the winning names from the box. All day she had examined the baby doll with wishful wistful eyes. When the time came to draw for the doll, Jeannie put her hand into the box and drew out her own name to the delight of everyone present. She hung onto the doll with all her strength until she had it safely home.

Everyone declared they had a grand time and were hoping for another similar event in the very near future.

Organizational Meet for Council Set for Nov. 23

The next meeting of the proposed Coordinating Council has been tentatively set for Tuesday evening, November 23, at 7:00 p. m. If present plans mature, this meeting will be held in the basement of the Community Congregational Church on Main Street.

Any organization which has not received its copy of the aims and purposes of Coordinating Councils, may contact Mrs. Herder at H6-3574 or Mr. McGee at H6-1168.

This will be an organizational meeting so all groups may select a representative and an alternate with power to cast a vote. Only one vote will be permitted each organization, and every church, club and group is being urged to be represented at this meeting.

Dinner will be served at 7:00 sharp. Reservations may be phoned to Mrs. Herder in no earliest convenience and in no case later than Saturday, November 20.

School Bonds Carried By 20 - 1 Ratio

The voters of the Lemon Grove School District voted 20 to 1 in favor of the school bonds last Friday, October 22. The results were 491 in favor of the bonds and 24 who voted "no".

The board of education and administration wish to thank the organizations and individuals who helped put over the bond drive, especially the P. T. A. who sponsored the progressive dinner for the band and telephoned reminding people to vote and also furnished transportation to voters.

They also wish to express appreciation to J. A. Van Gilse of the Grove Theatre and L. McGee of the Sugar Plum Shoppe for prizes awarded in the Bond Election Poster Contest. And last but not least, they wish to thank the Vista La Mesa Christian Church for furnishing their church dining room for the use of the band progressive dinner.

Lemon Grove Girl Scouts Will Attend 'Own Service' Sunday

Plans are completed for the big "Scouts Own" Service to be held Sunday, October 31, on Mt. Helix. Lemon Grove girls will have a prominent part in this, which will be the largest service of its kind ever attempted in this area.

Mr. Aldon Goodall's bus will transport all Brownies, Girl Scouts and their parents, who have no way to go. It will leave the Congregational Church in Lemon Grove at 3:10 Sunday afternoon and leave the St. John of the Cross Church at 3:20. The Girl Scout organization will assume the expense of this bus. All parents are urged to attend.

Cars will not be allowed to park on the mountain, but must be left parked below. Bus service will be maintained from Highway 80 to the top where the services are held.

OVER 300 WERE AT FIRST PTA MEET OF YEAR

The first P. T. A. meeting of the school year got off to a good start Thursday evening, October 21, with over 300 present. Mrs. J. G. Durham presided, with Mrs. Hal Crow, Ninth District president as guest of honor.

The proposed budget for the year was approved, and Mrs. R. E. Hoover was appointed the new Welfare Chairman.

Mrs. J. E. Beyers, membership chairman, announced the membership drive had been very successful, over 700 parents becoming allied with the organization.

Mrs. Nancy Tuthill, president of the teachers' organization, introduced all the teachers to the parents and Mrs. Ada Krimsky, music supervisor, led in community singing. Mrs. Grace Toomire was accompanist.

Mrs. Paul Harvey acted as moderator during a question and answer period. Those who answered the questions were Mrs. Hal Crow, Mr. V. J. Dohmann, president of the board of education; S. K. Solleder, principal of the school and Byron L. Netzley, superintendent of the district.

The mothers of the kindergarten and eighth grade rooms served refreshments and superintended the decorations for the event.

Next Week Business Meet Cancelled

The regular weekly meeting of the Lemon Grove Business Men's Club was held Tuesday noon at the La Mesa Country Club. Vice president "Andy" Anderson presided in the absence of John Van Gilse, president, who was called to Hollywood on urgent business.

The group declined with thanks an offer of the La Mesa Kiwanis to send Jack Hannah as a speaker to discuss the propositions facing voters on the ballot next week. The reason for declining the offer was given as lack of time and the fact that Supervisor Dave Bird had already discussed the propositions with the club recently.

The speaker of the day was the Rev. Dan Apra, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Lemon Grove. "Chris" Ferguson introduced the speaker whose subject was "Let's buy in Lemon Grove." Rev. Apra attacked the subject by saying that we had more to sell in Lemon Grove than mere groceries and goods. He spoke for thirty minutes on his subject, interspersed with pointed witticisms and at the close of his talk the audience applauded its appreciation.

The new business directory was mentioned but set aside to be discussed at the next meeting of the board. There will be no meeting next Tuesday which is election day. The next meeeting of the club will be on November 9, at 12:00 noon at the La Mesa Country Club.

Plans for Outdoor Contest Progress

The Garden Club Outdoor Contest has started a series of plans for entries. It will be more than just a yard or garden contest. Those living in apartments, or who have little yard space may still compete in the contest.

A large display on a roof, a porch or even a decorated window may win the prize. Anything that may be seen from out of doors will be eligible.

This contest should do much to beautify our community as the holiday season approaches.

Less Than 60 Percent of Residents Found at Home by Census

A religious census was taken in Vista La Mesa Sunday and in La Mesa. The Christian Church there was in charge of the work in that area. In the whole area, 2,726 calls were completed, finding 1586 people at home.

Of those interviewed, 118 declined to answer any questions at all. Over 300 workers made the canvas which they hope to complete next Sunday.

Business Women Busy With Plans For Federation

Mrs. Burton Snyder called the meeting of the Business Women's League to order Thursday, October 21, with 23 women present.

Guests and prospective members introduced were Mrs. Paul Duley of The Homemakers and Mrs. Rella of Rella's Shoe Shop.

A letter of thanks was read from a woman who had received from the welfare department of the organization to the extent of $54. Mrs. Henry Etonsohn and Mrs. Ernest Sunbury were thanked for their work on the project.

It was decided to hold the next Business Women's luncheon at Coronado, November 16.

An announcement was made that an invitation had been accepted by the County Development Federation to have a dinner at the Forward Club House in Lemon Grove, November 16, at 6:30 p. m. Reservations should be made well in advance and may be arranged by calling Mrs. George Dickinson, telephone chairman, at H6-3541.

General chairman, Mrs. J. A. Van Gilse started immediately to formulate plans for the affair, and with the help of those present, apointed the following committees: telephone, Mrs. George Dickinson; decorations, Mrs. Paul Duley and Mrs. Edna Willis; publicity, Mrs. Burt Snyder; buying and cooking, Mrs. Louis McGee and Mrs. Chappelle.

Mrs. Snyder will be in charge of the program. Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls will be called upon to help with the serving.

LET'S DISCUSS IT

by Mrs. Agnes Whitlock

Let's discuss Charity. Charity is a word most of us avoid. Why? Well, most of the time it is associated with unsavory conditions. Naturally some of the more delicate persons turn their heads on the whole thing. The word charity has been misused so many times that the very thought of accepting charity brings chills.

Do you know the accepted meaning of charity or charities?

"A charity is a donation in trust for promoting the welfare of mankind at large, or of a community or of some class forming a part of it, in short — a gift for general public use." This gift usually consists of money or articles to use for relief of sufferers from disease, poverty and misery.

Charity has come in the footsteps of Civilization. It has been slow and halting, but ever persistent, until the treatment of the poor is now accepted as evidence of the civilization of a community.

The poor and helpless have always been looked after by the church, regardless of denomination. So the church is really the first organized charity. It is well for the church to do all it can, but the fundamental responsibility for the care of the unfortunate rests upon the community.

A friend is most welcome in some circumstances, such as sickness and in periods of unusual difficulty. It is often said that "misery craves company." How true that is. There is another old saying that a lot of us should remember, that is, "a friend in need is a friend indeed." Some people who are your best friends when times are going good, become as scarce as the proverbial "Hen's Teeth" when trouble comes your way. Why is that? You're the same person and you certainly need friendship when you are in trouble. So you see friendship is another form of charity.

Charity should be the cardinal virtue of every member of the community. Now that statement doesn't mean that you are to be fanatic about it. Cultivate a readiness to overlook the faults of others; that is a form of charity. Spiritual benevolence or just plain Christian Love is another form of charity.

I think it would do us all good to give a thought to the various meanings of this word 'Charity.'

Members of the Charity Council met this week for the first time. We discussed ways and means of obtaining cooperation and needed help for the community's unfortunate. During the afternoon we also became better acquainted with each other.

We hope to form a working council that the community can be proud of. In doing this we can also be proud of our community.

In the preceding weeks we have talked to many people and they all agree that we need a Community Welfare organization. One that can lend a helping hand to the people who are not eligible for help from other organizations.

The council being in the infant stage, cannot be expected to do as well as they hope to do in the future. It may take time to accomplish perfection.

Don't let this stop you, however. If you have any knowledge of anyone in need, or if you yourself are in a tough spot, let us know. There is no problem too large for us to tackle. That's not saying we'll succeed, but we'll sure try.

Members are beginning to gather clothing and other articles that can be used. These things will be sorted and used during the year, as needed. Cold weather is on it's way. There will be need for coats and heavy clothing. If your child has out grown some of his clothing, please let us give them to someone who can use them.

Present during the discussion were Mrs. Lena Etensohn, Mrs. Randolph Morse, Mrs. G. L. Dickerhoff, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, Mrs. R. E. Hoover, Mrs. Joseph Beyer, Mrs. C. A. Olsen and Mrs. C. A. Whitlock.

I would like to congratulate the Business Men's Club, The Business Women's League and the Lions Club on their picnic last Sunday. It was a Howling Success, and I do mean howling. I am sure that everyone had many a good laugh.

The grown people really showed the kids that they were not so old after all. The adult games were entered into with as much gusto as were the children's.

You really missed something if you didn't see the sack races or the three legged race consisting of man and wife teams. A frog has nothing on Harold Holiday of the Auto Rebuild. He won the men's sack race with a lot of high and fast hopping. Say, you should have seen those hard-hitting mamas in that ball game.

The local merchants donated prizes for the affair, and may I say they were very nice prizes, too.

We were not able to stay all day, but the short time we were there was thoroughly enjoyed. Next time we intend to be the first ones there and the last to leave.

We should have more of this type of entertainment. It's something the whole family can enjoy together. How about a repeat performance of the picnic.

GUESTS OF SUNBURYS

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sunbury of Central Avenue had as dinner guests Saturday evening Mrs. Grace Runalls and Mr. Luther Runalls of San Diego. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sunbury and family of Golden Avenue were their dinner guests. Other recent guests were his mother, Mrs. Oscar Sunbury and Mrs. Anna Bettinson.

TO ATTEND FOOTBALL GAME

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Winton and family plan to go to Los Angeles Saturday to attend the big game between U. S. C. and the University of California at Los Angeles. Their son plays first trombone in the band there.

IN OUR TOWN...

They're going to exercise a privilege that is the fundamental reason why our United States is the greatest country in the world. Yes, we the residents of this community and of America are indeed privileged, and on election day let us all go to the polls and take advantage of a right that few people in the world enjoy today.

LOOKIN' AT THE GROVE

by John A. Van Gilse

Perhaps we could just quietly call this "being Grateful week in Lemon Grove" for actually, we have many things at the present time to be grateful for.

First I think we can be grateful for the allotment for two new schools by the State of California which will in a measure alleviate the over crowded condition of our schools and classrooms. Secondly, we can be grateful for the 21 to 1 ratio in favor of the school bonds which means that we will be able to outfit the school with desks, chairs, and other class room needs. We can be grateful for the passing of the school bonds for it will make it possible to put our school play areas in good condition for recreational needs.

We can be grateful for the hard work of a few people in making the all-community picnic such a success last Sunday. We can be grateful for the large turnout and the showing of fair play and sportsmanship. We honestly believe that more than 200 men, women and children took sides in the "Tug O' War" contest. As to who won the tug o' war or the baseball game is of little consequence so long as everyone participated and enjoyed the events.

We can be especially grateful for the hard working P. T. A. at the Lemon Grove School and the hard preliminary work they are putting in to make this year's Hallowe'en Carnival the success it always has been.

It is almost unbelievable when we look back to last Hallowe'en and note that there was actually NO property damage in the Grove, mostly thanks to the excellent P. T. A. Hallowe'en Carnival. For a real treat, watch "Young America" Saturday night as they parade in their colorful and original costumes. You'll see everything from 'Little Bo Peep' to 'roughest toughest western bad men' you have ever seen. Don't be afraid to leave your homes, all the kids will be at the Carnival anyway.

We can be grateful also to the Board of Supervisors and county taxpayers for the additional money alotted us for the building of a community center building. With a little luck we may have the building within a year. We must not forget Tony Sonka when we review being grateful for it was Tony who donated the land on which the new Community building will be erected.

There are ever so many things to be grateful for and there are many, many things yet to be done. We can be grateful for the new sewer sanitation district, we can be happy about the forward progress we are making toward a fire district. We are fortunate to have a zoning ordinance and grateful for the two direct bus lines to down town San Diego. We can be grateful for the estaglishment of the new homeland township with headquarters right here in Lemon Grove.

We can be grateful to the few people here in Lemon Grove who do so much for so many, to make Lemon Grove a better place in which to live. I still think, "We are getting places."

'Ham Dinner' All Set for Nov. 10

The ladies of the Community Congregational Church planned several weeks ago to have a 'Ham Dinner' at the church, but due to the polio epidemic and to the condition of the streets surrounding the church while the sewer mains were being laid, the dinner had to be postponed.

At last the way seems clear, and the dinner will be served to the public Wednesday, November 10, beginning at 5.30.

The Committee in charge of preparing the dinner are very skilled at cooking, and will do their utmost at this time to serve the best ham dinner ever tasted. In charge of the cooking are Mrs. Joe Lowry, Mrs. E. F. Barker and Mrs. L. D. Newton.

Sensational Story Screened in 'Lady From Shanghai'

Rita Hayworth stars with Orson Welles in Columbia's "The Lady from Shanghai," coming to the Grove Theatre on Sunday. Everett Sloane and Glenn Anders are cast in the principal supporting roles. Welles is also credited with the screen play and production.

Miss Hayworth will be seen as an exciting woman of the world, the notorious Mrs. Bannister, who proves irrisistible to Welles, a nautical Irish dreamer. Their strange romance starts in New York's Central Park, continues on a luxurious cruise to San Francisco, Cuba and Mexico. Orson becomes involved in a fantastic phoney murder plot, fights for his life at a trial and escapes to the refuge of a deserted amusement park. There, in the nightmarish "crazy house," follows a typical Wellesian climax which insures a startling surprise.

The role of the slinky siren is said to give Miss Hayworth scope for some strong emoting, while Welles has written a truly different part for himself. Sloane is seen as Miss Hayworth's crippled husband and Anders as a half-mad lawyer.

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of ages may be preserved by quotation. -Disraeli

E. B. Oberlitner Passed Away in Toledo, Ohio

Friends here were shocked to learn of the death of Ernest B. Oberlitner, of Spring Valley. He was ill a few days, then entered a hospital in Toledo, Ohio, Sunday, where he passed away a few hours later.

Funeral services and burial were conducted in Whitehouse, Ohio, the former home of both Mr. and Mrs. Oberlitner.

The Oberlitners left California in September for an extended vacation in Ohio, where Mr. Oberlitner was active in school administration before coming to California ten years ago.

Their son, Thomas Oberlitner, attending Stanford University, left at once by plane to be with his mother. He plans to drive her home soon.

Mr. Oberlitner is survived by his wife, Margaret Oberlitner; a daughter, Miss Esta Oberlitner, a son Thomas and wife and a grandson. He also had two brothers in the vicinity of Whitehouse, Ohio.

ATTENDED PROGRAM AT BALBOA PARK

Rev. and Mrs. Dan Apra, Mrs. Lum Morrow, Mrs. Ernest Sunbury, Mrs. May Yount, Mrs. Agnes Osgood and Mrs. L. F. Herder were representatives of the Community Congregational Church, who attended the Reformation Sunday program held in the Ford Bowl at Balboa Park Sunday. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of New York was the speaker and he stressed the need for cooperation of all Protestant creeds, indeed the union of all christian peoples in every land, to bring harmony out of the present world unrest.

Speak, move, act in peace, as if you were in prayer. In truth, this is prayer. —Fenelon

For Men Only: How NOT To Escape 'Golfitis'

by Frank Higgins

Normally I would approach the task of writing an article for public consumption with the caution of a tight rope walker, but in this case I'm jumping into it with both feet.

Golf! Golf is guilty! Yes, the little white ball and the sticks to hit it with. They've got me where I'm eating my soup with a nine iron and my friends all look like golf clubs to me.

(Tony Sonka is a two iron, Paul Duley is a sand wedge, Doc Brassington is a putter with glasses on.) And to complete the tragedy, I am writing articles yet-

The existence of this disease known as 'golfitis' is easy to account for in the person of one Bob Harvey alias "Scotty". He has deliberately placed one of the finest golf courses in Southern California, right here on our back door step, complete with nice clean fairways and the flawless greens that Scotty alone knows how to build.

Every Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock this same Mr. Harvey, while still trying to escape from the arms of Morpheus, gets his golf net and goes out catching golf bugs. When he gets a net full he throws them down on the first tee.

They quickly scamper out of his reach, grab a driver, slice a ball over on the road and are off climbing old 'Misery Gulch' (a title of affection which we bestow on hole number one.)

For the past three months this son of the 'Old Heather' has caught the same early golf bugs — but it is rumored that he's getting a bigger net, and that none of you are safe. They say that it will be especially dangerous for anyone who has ever had a golf club in his hands or peered at a golf ball through a store window, or in any way had any thought pertaining to golf, such as seeing a golf short at the Grove Theatre, or a picture of a golf course in a vacation magazine.

Of course reading this article practically puts you right in the middle of Scotty's new big net— so you needn't try to escape it.

It is comforting though to know that Lemon Grove Golf and Country Club is a nice full size championship golf course, and that there is plenty of room for all us golf bugs, good, and not so good.

Johnny Hill, Doc Brassington, Tony Sonka, 'Mac" MsQueen, Paul Duley and I would like to see Scotty catch many of the other local golf bugs in his net on Wednesday at 7:00 a. m. We get a big kick out of it and we are sure you would too. Besides it might do something to those mid-sections that are beginning to resemble a perfect circle (now I'm getting close to home.) Seriously though, we are fortunate to have this golf course and you may add it to your list of things that you didn't know you could buy in Lemon Grove.

Here are some of Scotty's good values.

Green fees, week days, less than a buck, Saturday, Sunday and holidays, slightly over a buck.

Beautiful Pitch and Putt course, practically the cost of a package of cigarettes for all evening.

First class well lighted practice Driving range, bucket of good balls for the smallest bill made, or one-half of that amount either.

Driving range and Pitch and Putt open evenings only.

Jack Orr, a genial, competent professional is available for appointments at a very nominal fee.

A full family membership in this club is a sound and profitable investment for those who love the game and play enough. Ask "Scotty" or Jack about it.

In wrapping this so called article up, I want to add that Bob Harvey or "Scotty" as we call him, has offered his golf course — free, mind you — for the use of our juveniles interested in golf. They would have to be organized first though, and this is where we— as citizens of this community come in. Would it be wise to ignore this splendid opportunity? Lets talk it over at the next Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Thanks for listening.

YOUR GARDEN THIS MONTH

By J. A. Lewis

This is chrysanthemum time. Every home garden should have some of these very colorful plants as they bloom at this time of the year when most of the other flowers are gone.

There are many different types and varieties but the hardy types are the ones mostly used for home gardens. They come in the button, single, anemone and pompon.

Chrysanthemums can be bought at this time of the year in bloom in gallon cans at most nurseries. This is a very profitable way to buy them, as you can see what they look like and one is never disappointed. Also you have many shoots of new growth which come up from the roots, thus giving you stock for next year.

The commercial types are the varieties used mostly by the florists, but they can also be raised in home gardens with extra care and attention. The exhibition types are collected by hobbyists. These include many of the spidery ones which are very beautiful.

It isn't necessary to dig up the plants when the blooms die; simply cut them off and forget them until spring. Then separate and replant for next fall's blooms.

Gin Rummy is Both Work and Pleasure

How actors can sometimes combine business with pleasure and indulge in their favorite pastime while being paid for it was illustrated most clearly during production of "Are You With It?" Universal - International's breezy new musical comedy now at the Grove Theatre.

Olga San Juan and Martha Stewart, the film's two feminine stars, are both ardent gin-rummy players and for a scene which takes place in a train, were required to play several hands.

With about 12 takes followed by innumerable close-ups, the girls had the opportunity to play gin-rummy almost all of one day.

The game became so keen at times in between takes, that spectators were making side-bets on the outcome.

Donald O'Connor and Lew Parker are the film's other stars. Jack Hively directed and Robert Arthur was the producer. The picture is based upon the Broadway musical comedy hit of the same name.

MY KITTEN

And when she's parking in the sun

She doesn't seem to care.

And if she needs some air.

A Talk With Parents

by L. E. McGee

This week I expect more response than in any other single column since the first issue. This week we are to discuss how to teach children a healthy respect for authority. If you are a happy well-adjusted citizen, you have a respect for authority.

You didn't learn it suddenly when you became 21 years of age. You either learned it as a child or you learned it the hard way as an adult. If you learned respect for authority as an adult, you can stop reading now, because I know your youngster will learn it as a child, won't he?

The parent who had strict parents and was spanked rather severely or often when he was growing up is sometimes inclined to spare the rod where his children are concerned. As I mentioned in my first article, the increase in juvenile delinquency has been tremendous during the last 20 years.

In the same 20 year period teachers lost the privilege of administering corporal punishment, parents were sold on the brutality of spanking, psychologists preached that we must not restrain the natural impulses of our children and parents were being arrested for leaving a mark on a child when punishing him. Right now, may I say, if you have spanked Junior and haven't left a mark, you have not spanked Junior.

Now perhaps I'm not intelligent, but the fact that delinquency has multiplied itself to an unbelievable level, and the system we were using for raising children was abolished; both events taking place during the same period of time, it can only add up to one thing from my view point. Abolish the new system, bring back the old, and the problem will be on the way to a solution. Please tell me if this makes sense.

I believe that most youth leaders and teachers can line their children up along a wall and select the children who are raised the old fashioned way and those who have been raised by amateur psychologists and dreamers and I believe their selections would be 99 per cent correct.

I know most of you will remember that before you entered school you knew no authority except that of your parents. In most cases you learned early that father and mother were to be obeyed and respected unless you wanted some painful results. Your first grade teacher soon taught you the same thing, you obeyed and showed respect or you were tanned.

Through the grades you learned that each new teacher and the principal had the power to enforce authority so you respected that authority. True, there was an occasional teacher who knew nothing about children except to thrash them. That teacher, even in those old "ignorant days" was soon found out and was relieved of her duties if she didn't correct her faults.

I believe that the youngster who was paddled as often as once a month in school was rare, indeed. All that was necessary for most children was to see the paddle in place and to know what it was for. If the school you attended was the "modern" type, where school authorities are not brutal, ask some of your older friends if they were abused or helped with the old rugged type of teacher and principal.

If you start early and enforce your orders or effect a painful result when they are not carried out, consistently, you will find yourself in a few years the parents of a teen-ager who will usually be guided by your wishes and who will very likely get into little or no trouble with school or public officials.

If you haven't started early, you'd better start now, unless you want to raise children who will behave as quite a few of them do in our local theatre, on our streets and in our schools. Also get your local P. T. A. group to discuss this at your next meeting.

You'll be surprised to find out how many parents are anxious to have the old system revived in school. You may also be surprised to find out how many of your modern, well educated, intelligent friends know the remarkable results they can obtain by applying a thin piece of wood to an uncovered bottom, when the necessity arises.

Now, please don't just grab a stick and start swinging every time Mary or Bobby step over the line. Sit down and talk it over. Before you spank, be sure the child knows exactly what is going on and why.

Each year corporal punishment should become a less frequent occurance in a child's life. If you have been consistent, fair and reasonable, you will discover that the need will lessen year by year until it no longer exists.

The only time a youngster past 12 or 14 needs punishment is when they occasionally reach the point where they believe they are too old, too big, or immune for another reason.

After these same 20 years most educators agree that the only objection to corporal punishment is the so called danger to those few children (about 2 per cent) whose emotions are so highly strung that physical punishment injures them beyond bodily pain. It is claimed that these children are injured mentally to the point where their nerves are in such a condition that they become misfits in the world.

This may be true. I don't believe it but I don't know. I do know that the only cases of this type when I have come in contact with them, were the result of beating, not paddling. There is a great difference. I have known parents in this community who have used their fists, chains, bridles with bits attached, and two by fours. I don't call that punishment. If you only punish a child to let off steam, call the county welfare and let them find a home for the child.

But suppose for a minute that these exceptional children can't be spanked; will anything be gained by the present system of coddling and encouraging these neurotic dispositions? I think not. Besides, are we to allow the 98 per cent of normal children to become neurotic morons just because 2 per cent cannot be treated normally? It would be far better to let the 2 per cent grow up as best they can and save the 98 per cent rather than ruin all, trying to save a few.

Perhaps if the 2 per cent were segregated and placed in special schools where they could be studied. More could be accomplished. In any case, let's get back to normal and save the big majority of our boys and girls from growing up to believe in a dream world that only exists in the mind of a dreamer who nine times out of ten has no children of his own.

Before You Can Reach Your Doctor

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

In last weeks' article we spoke of burns; this time let us consider fractures, i. e. breaking of bones. Here again, thousands of such accidents could be avoided if we would take our time and use more care in all of our doings.

For the purpose of study we may classify fractures into three different types:

1. Green-stick fractures, a condition where a bone is only partly broken.

2. Simple fractures, where the bone is completely broken but the severed members are not exposed.

3. Compound fractures where a bone is shattered in such a way that a part or parts of the bone are exposed, laying the foundation for infection.

The last mentioned is the more painful and more serious condition and needs immediate attention. Green-stick and simple fractures as a rule can be handled by the laity in case of emergency. Great care must be taken in splinting and in preparing the patient for the trip to the doctor.

It is always better to call a doctor if it is at all possible. Tell him the type of fracture if it can be discerned and at what part of the body it occured so he may be fully equipped to handle the case.

Under no circumstances should anyone but a doctor attempt to set a fractured bone. Fractures may occur at any bony structure of the body such as finger, wrist, arm, collar bone, neck, skull, rib, spine, nose, toe, ankle, leg, kneecap or hip.

According to the location there may be many symptoms; the most important ones are: swelling, inability to use the part involved, deformity, pain at the slightest motion, and a grating sound when the ends of a broken bone rub together. Sometimes x-rays will have to be taken to establish the fact.

In compound fractures surgery is always necessary. In such cases a patient should not be moved before a doctor arrives, unless it is absolutely necessary and then only with the greatest of care.

Many times splinting is indicated, especially when fractures of long bones are involved, such as arm or leg. Since we are speaking of emergency cases only, emergency treatment must be devised somehow.

In using ingenuity many articles or objects can be found suitable for bandaging and splinting. Bed-sheeting or pillow cases ripped in three inch strips make swell bandages. Young willow twigs are ideal for tying. Soft clothing, grass or hay can be used for wadding. Heavy cardboard, plyboard, branches from shrubbery or trees can be utilized for splinting.

As in any other emergency case keep cool, concentrate your mind on the job to be done and something will become of it. It may not be a swell looking job, what of it? Leave this to the doctor. As long as you can ease the pain of the sufferer; as long as you can prevent a simple fracture from becoming a compounded one you did a great deal and your job is done.

Whatever material you use for splinting, it should be wrapped in some sort of wadding held in place by bandaging. The splints are then carefully placed alongside the fractured area in such a way that they reach well above and below it and bandaged or tied.

Care must be taken that the tying is firm in order to immobilize the fracture, yet it must be applied in such a way as not to interfere with the normal blood circulation and this is very important.

Fractures of fingers, toes, ribs, kneecap, wrist, ankle, or nose very seldom neeed splinting at the site of the accident while fractures of arm and leg bones require such splinting.

A typical splinting for a thigh bone fracture is applied as follows: One splint on the outside of the leg from armpit to the heel; another from the crotch to the heel on the inside and a third one in back of the leg from the hip to the heel.

Placing a patient with a fractured leg on a conveyance for transportation must be done with sufficient help in order to avoid a compounded condition. Never should the patient be asked to help along. When a broken rib or several ribs are involved the patient may reduce the sensation of pain by shallow breathing.

A fracture of the skull is a very serious condition and many times is fatal. A doctor should be called at once and while waiting for his arrival the patient should be kept as quiet as possible and icepacks be applied to the head. The quintessence in such a case is speed in obtaining a doctor and ambulance service. This also applies to fractures of the neck or spine.

While the majority of fractures are not fatal and many of them after being reduced are practically painless, they are time robbers and money stealers. As mentioned at the beginning of this article if we only would slow down a bit in our hasty movements and improve on our thoughtless ways of doing things, fractures could be reduced to nil.

Fire Destroys New Home of Spring Valley Folks

A fire, started apparently by an oil heater completely destroyed the new home of the Jack Robinson family at 1022 Tyler, in Spring Valley, Tuesday, October 26 at about noon while Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were in Lemon Grove for a brief shopping trip.

The family had built the house during the past year while living in a trailer nearby. No one was injured in the fire and they are once again living in their trailer.

Forestry trucks which arrived early at the fire were unable to save any of the home or furnishings . Total loss was estimated by Forestry officials at approximately $3500.

The Coordinating Council of Spring Valley aided the family considerably through their "Thrift Shop." Friends and neighbors were also very helpful as the family's clothing was almost entirely destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thomas and Mrs. J. J. Conklin motored to Hemet recently and visited the "Farmers' Fair", which was a fine exhibit of farm products, livestock and fancy work.

They found the northern part of the county in a prosperous condition. The return trip was made by way of Escondido, Rancho Santa Fe and Del Mar. The group had a very enjoyable trip.
